Love Geography and want to do more?

This clip from BBC Bitesize is about map reading skills and compasses (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/articles/zhtyv7>). Earlier in the year in Geography the children learnt about sketch maps. Last week's Geography asked children to use the directions of the compass. Therefore, this is why we've included this lesson if you'd like to do more.

Wednesday 22nd April was Earth Day! It takes place every year and it is an opportunity for people right across the globe to come together to celebrate the world and highlight how important it is we protect our precious planet.

Why not try celebrate Earth Day by creating a nature collage: make an all-natural art collage with things you've found in nature, like leaves, pressed flowers, pieces of bark and other small items. You could collect items when you're out for your daily walk!

Finally, maybe you can have a look online to see how the coronavirus lockdown affected the planet this year? Have a look for pictures of Venice.
